1. The university's guidelines for the evaluation process are explained to students in the classes, and a copy is posted on the notice- board.
2. Students are educated about the pattern of internal and semester end examinations, as well as the evaluation method, at the start of the semester. They are also informed about the eligibility requirements to appear for the final examination.
3. Internal examinations take place on a regular basis. Answer sheets are examined immediately following the examination. All of the assessed answer booklets are given to the concerned students in the classroom, with suggestions for improvement made in different ways for weaker and advanced students.
